THE SIZE OF
COINS AND MEDALS

(The closing number or that following name of coin)

In this Catalogue, is given in Millimeters.

There are no duplicates in any lot unless so mentioned specially.

* * * Cut on first page of cover, represents exact type of lot 233, differs only in date.

* * * There are no electrotypes, false copies, imitations or counterfeit pieces of any kind in this sale. We adhere to this invariable rule in all our sales—public or private.

* * * Catalogues of this Sale, with the prices realized, in red ink, 75 cents.

It has been with no small degree of pleasure that we have arranged the varied lines of Coins and Medals, offered on the following pages; while at times the work has been difficult and even arduous, owing to circumstances not necessary to mention here, and the inclination to give more extended comments on many of the interesting pieces herein contained has been difficult to restrain, we have been forced to remember, however regretfully, that the scope of an Auction Catalogue will not admit either of detailed descriptions, or of those historic notes, which add so much to the value of a piece for the average collector. We have deviated from the rule laid down for our guidance, in rare cases, such for instance as the sarcastic pieces on Pres. Thiers and Marshal MacMahon (see Lots 118 and 119), and attention has been specially called in the text to a few other pieces, such as the Doubloon, with the name of Brasher, showing it to be closely allied to the Continental series: we have also given occasional references to standard authorities, especially in American Medals, to Betts, the most recent and reliable work in this department.

Rarely, if ever, have American collectors had the opportunity to compete for such extensive and important lines of Medieval coinages and those which succeeded them, up to the present century. The Papal series, so voluminously represented, stands pre-eminent above all others in the great variety of its issues. Portraits, allegory, history sacred and secular, and the highest efforts of ecclesiastic art in its most attractive and significant forms, are there combined in an exceptional degree; hardly a feature in the long history of the Roman Church, often associated with its symbolic antetype in the earlier Jewish Church, has failed to be recorded by its prelates, and rarely have so many of the best examples of these pieces, whose symbolism will bear the closest study, been assembled as here. The Venetian coinage, laden as it is with the romance which lends such a charm to the "Queen of the Adriatic," and the "Merchants of Venice," deserves special mention, for many "ducats of its Doges" are here presented; but without attempting to condense the riches of the Catalogue into a brief mention in a Prefatory Note, we must content ourselves with calling the reader's careful attention to its contents. The pieces will be found to conform strictly to description, whether as to condition or rarity, and no copies of any kind, imitation or counterfeit pieces, or electrotypes, have been admitted.

It has been necessary to abbreviate in many cases, perhaps more than usual, but full explanations will be found in the Table of Abbreviations on the following page.

This and the next number, believed to have been struck in Germany by opponents of the French Republic, to arouse popular feeling against it, deserve a more extended description, explanatory and in addition to that given in the text, by reason of their satirical character. If any account of them in detail has appeared, it has escaped our memory or observation.

The bust of Thiers on obv., with eye-glasses, though no name is given, is evidently that President. In place of a legend, it has a border of loaded scourges alternating with extinguishers, with torches below on either side of 1685 (date of the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes). The torches allude to the Commune, punished and extinguished by the National forces. Over the head is a cross, in form of the chief German decoration, alluding to the capture of Paris, and also with the date, to the protection of the Roman Church under Thiers. The rev. has a shield showing the execution of the Communist Gen. Rossel, on the field of SATORY (named in its chief), within a wreath of laurel and oak, etc. Below is 1872 (date of the execution); doubtless, with the emblems on the reverse, designed to incite the Communist leaders.

- 1119 MacMahon, 1874 5 Fcs., Essay Signed Napoleon F. Head $\angle$. R $\angle$ Cwnd arms beneath cardinal's hat. Proof, light blemishes. 37.

The legend MAC-MAHON I. SEPTENNAT around bust on obv. refers to his seven years' term as President, (the first of that duration), and the name beneath it to the fact that that position was due to Napoleon's folly, who "made" him. The shield on reverse has the eagle of the Empire on a blue field quartered (1 and 2) with the Bourbon lilies on a similar field (2 and 3); and the Republican cap on a red field in an escutcheon of pretence, all alluding to the various governments under which the Marshal held office. Behind the shield a sword and pennon inscribed LOURDES, in saltire with an aspergillum and another pennon inscribed SALETTE (well known places of pilgrimage under Roman patronage). Beneath the shield hang two medalets of the Virgin and the Sacred Heart, while over the Cardinal's hat which is above the crowned shield, is LOYOLA:—the reference being to the support given the Marshal by the Roman Church. Legend, REPUBLIQUE FRANCAISE and below, 5 F. with 1874 (date of his election), ESSAI and a cock (gallus) used as the emblem of France (Ancient Gaul) under Louis Phillippe. Edge, DIEU PUNIT (punishes in place of the usual protects) FRANCE. The piece evidently satirizes the Marshal-President as a sort of Vicar of Bray, and his subserviency to ecclesiastical influence.

These two pieces, with Nos. 115, 117 and 120 we regard as entirely unofficial, and made probably for speculative purposes. They are nevertheless of historic interest, and were placed on the market at rates commanded by scarce or rare pieces, and very generally the price has been maintained.

Plus Ultra Anno 1742.) — through two pillars in sea. Below, BRASHER. R Cross, with arms of Castile and Leon alternating in angles. Counterstamped E · B in small oval on centre of cross, same as on Ephraim Brasher's N. Y. Doubloon of 1787. Circle of dots around borders. Fine. Small scratches on rev. (Weight, 408 Grains). Exceedingly rare. Size 27.

This type of coin is not new to us; one similar is to be found in Fon. Cat., No. 8892; but this particular variety by Brasher and counterstamped with his initials, we have never met with or heard of. The position of the letter V is one generally occupied by the initial of the moneyer on similar coins of Lima, both silver and gold, but here we regard it as an abbreviation of the word Value. It is not presumed that the date indicates year of coinage. We conclude it was made at a subsequent time, and probably while Mr. Brasher was established in New York City as a goldsmith, during which period his memorable Doubloon was coined. So closely is this piece allied with our early coinage, which is classed as Colonial, that we feel it is but a just tribute to place it here with them. It is a well known fact that Spanish-American Doubloons were openly imitated and minted in New York City so late as 1821, as a legitimate or undisturbed pursuit.
